EUROPE'S SECRET WEEKEND HOTSPOT

Imagine yourself on a Greek isle lush with history; basking in the sun and looking out over crystal blue water as the Mediterranean climate beckons you to dive in. Boasting quite a flight schedule that reads more like a well structured day at JFK Airport, Mykonos has earned it's bragging rights. Direct flights from most European cities, including London, Paris and Rome has made this little island Europe's secret weekend hot spot. Since it is not on the list of usual suspects when one looks to plan out a European vacation, this makes Mykonos that much more desirable.

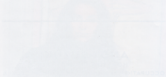

Not to worry if you are not already in Europe; flying in from North America gives the grand excuse to spend a few days in Athens and to get acclimated. There could be worse things than having the opportunity to visit ancient ruins at the Acropolis. Don't overlook the possibility of taking a ferry from Rafina port. For a longer scenic adventure, charter a boat for four days and do some island hopping on the way to Mykonos.

ABOUT FACE

LIFESTYLES OF THE YOUNG & FABULOUS

While it's hard to believe that an island with ancient ties that takes up no more than 41 square miles of land has it all and can still call itself the perfect rustic getaway. For those who cannot stand being away from the high-end staples such as Chanel, Hermes and Nobu, don't fret. Such "staples" are available. However, the true highlights are the smaller stores and restaurants.

Little Venice is just as one would picture it: small structures dangle over the edge of the coastline and entice you to explore. Roam the back streets off the main drag and usually traveled roads to discover unknown Grecian surprises in the form of shops and taverns. Offering traditional Greek fare and homemade desserts, Fokos Taverna is truly a hidden gem. Situated on a secluded beach, the location is considered remote but the pristine setting is worth a visit.

NOTEWORTHY NECTAR: LN2 CAIPIRINHA

Caipirinha, Brazil's National cocktail, is marvelously scrumptious. It is a drink unlike any other and lives up to the Brazilians' reputation; they make everything sexy. The signature drink is a divine mixture of cachaça, fresh lime juice, sugar and ice. Cachaça is Brazil's version of rum, and they are both derived from sugar-cane products.

At the SLS Hotel in Beverly Hills, the Caipirinha is prepared tableside. The SLS has further elevated the cocktail to yet another level by replacing the ice with liquid nitrogen. The liquid nitrogen cart saunters around, spilling liquid nitrogen smoke over the edges as the "LN2 Caipirinha" is masterfully prepared table after table, and it makes for a noteworthy quencher.

This adult ice is then garnished with edible flowers and accompanied by a small spoon so that it may be enjoyed in quite the same manner as one would a fine sorbet. KATRINA WOOLVERTON
